Sintered Stone Production Process

Quality Intelligent Manufacturing from Raw Materials to Finished Products

Raw Material Selection:

Premium mineral raw materials including natural quartz, feldspar and kaolin are scientifically proportioned, finely milled and pulped, then spray-dried and granulated to form high-purity, highly-uniform dry-powder base materials.

High-Pressure Forming:

Raw materials are densely formed at one time by a ten-thousand-ton high-pressure press. Combined with high-precision digital ink-jet technology, it faithfully replicates the texture, authentic colour and tactile feel of natural ceramic tiles.

High-Temperature Sintering:

Selected premium mineral raw materials such as natural quartz, feldspar and kaolin are fired at over 1200°C for a long time for complete ceramic crystallization. The resulting panels feature compact structure, water-repellent & stain-resistant performance and excellent stability.

Finished-Product Treatment:

Proceed with cooling setting, in-depth surface processing, CNC temperature-controlled cutting, precise edge-trimming and full-range quality inspection. Qualified products are protected and packed for delivery.
